WILLIE
"JACK"
DYER

When Willie "Jack" Dyer arrived at Francis House in August his daughter Angela says, "We walked through the door and it felt just like home and my dad looked so at peace."

Home and family were the most important things in Jack's life. Although Jack was a fiercely independent and hardworking man, he loved being surrounded by family. When Jack wasn't working, he enjoyed the family's annual trip to Georgia visiting his siblings and extended family members. Holidays were marked by celebration and Jack's self-proclaimed "best BBQ ribs in Syracuse."

Jack was born in Cordele, GA in 1934 and grew up on a farm as the youngest boy of seven children. He joined the Army and served until he was 23. Soon after his return Jack met Janie on a blind date at the Georgia State County Fair. Their parents required a chaperone, Janie's older brother, on every date. Jack and Janie married in 1959 and had 7 children; 4 boys and 3 girls; Brenda, Angela, Jeffrey, Anthony, Jennifer, Theresa and Willie.

In 1965, Jack and Janie moved their family to Syracuse to be close to Jack's brother Jerry. Jack was trained as a car body repairman and worked for City Taxi and other car dealers in Syracuse. He eventually opened his own business. When Jack wasn't repairing cars he loved to fish, bowl, and watch his favorite baseball team, the LA Dodgers.

Jack was also an accomplished singer. He was the president and director of the male chorus at New Hope Missionary Baptist Church. He helped start male choir groups at other churches. Jack and his brother, Jerry were instrumental in starting the quartet group "The New Hope Bible School Singers". The group loved to travel the east coast and sang for churches and church events. The group recorded a 45 record in the late 60's.

Angela witnessed many beautiful moments while her dad lived at Francis House. "Our family is grateful for the caregivers. Not only did they provide extraordinary care for my father, they were very attentive to us, always asking us if we needed anything." Angela and her family are grateful for Father Mike who came in regularly to pray with her father. "As Christians, this meant a lot because prayer is very important to us."

Angela recalls one day when Sister Kathleen Osbelt stopped in to see Jack. "I told her that my father had not responded to me that day as he had in the past days. Sister said a prayer and placed her hands on his forehead. His eyes opened up so wide and he looked towards her as if he could see her...I will always cherish that moment."

Jack passed away on August 25, 2020. We were blessed to have Jack live his last days with all of us at Francis House.

“Psychologists have discovered that human resilience, the capacity to persevere, is like an emotional muscle. That is, we build stronger resilience through the right “exercises”, particularly these three: showing gratitude, being altruistic, and exhibiting a strong sense of life purpose....Do you want to make today matter? If so you will need to persevere.” – Chris Lowney, Make Today Matter.

The pandemic has challenged our human resilience on so many levels. No person has been left untouched by the scourge of this disease. We have all made significant lifestyle changes. Almost everyone knows someone who has suffered from and maybe even succumbed to the virus. For Francis House, there was the real possibility of temporary closure. The idea of not being able to care for our dying brothers and sisters was too painful to contemplate. However, we were able to persevere.

We recently received a letter that read, “The very nature of what you do speaks to the foundational character of sacrifice for others.” This letter defines the emotional exercise of altruism. Everyone working together for a common goal. To be a home and family for people who are at the end of life, is that selfless exercise which helps build our human resilience. The capacity to persevere.

For almost 30 years, Francis House’s mission has never wavered. We have been a resource to others who want to provide this same care in their own communities. In this time of pandemic, we have mentored and been mentored by other social model homes like ours. Out of mutual respect, dignity and clarity of purpose, we have supported each other through these past months. We will continue to do so in the future, exercising our shared values and experience. The capacity to persevere.

All members of our Francis House family live an attitude of gratitude. This was never more evident than through these past few months. Our staff, grateful to be serving our residents and our ministry, revised their schedules and took on the volunteer duties that our beloved volunteers could not perform due to quarantine. Other staff members volunteered to work from home or take temporary leave. Volunteers sent meals, baked goods, cards and prayers. We received donations from the stimulus checks of benefactors who were grateful to be working. The capacity to persevere.

There is a peace in knowing your purpose. There is a humility in being grateful. There is a recognition of blessing when you are able to serve selflessly. There is resilience in perseverance.

As the fall approaches, we have been blessed by the return of many of our volunteers and have added new volunteers to our ministry. We have opened our home to almost full capacity and will diligently continue in our efforts to serve our brothers and sisters in need.

Through God’s grace, faith, “exercise” and your unfailing support, Francis House has persevered. We will continue to pray for you and for an end to this pandemic. We ask that you pray for us in return.

In peace and gratitude,

SAVE THE DATE

We will hold our Memorial Mass on December 1, 2020. We will update you on our plans on our website www.francishouseny.org. Look for our mailing in late October to dedicate lights on our gazebo.

SHARING THEIR SPECIAL DAY

When the pandemic cancelled out of town plans for Breanne Geraldine Albright and Amar Arthur Anthony's wedding, they were searching for the perfect place to have their ceremony. They knew they wanted to keep their September 17th date. They also wanted to be close to her Breanne's grandmother Elizabeth, a resident at Francis House. The gazebo in our side yard was the perfect solution.

That day, caregivers helped Elizabeth get dressed for the special occasion. Liz Hahhr, menu coordinator, made a small wedding cake and cupcakes. Staff decorated the gazebo in white lights, tulle and flowers. Staff peeked out their windows at the ceremony with smiles on their faces and tears in their eyes. It was a beautiful moment.

Thank you to Breanne and Amar for letting Francis House share in your beautiful day. You reminded all of us of the gift of love and family.

The Francis House gazebo was the backdrop for the wedding of Breanne Gealdine Albright and Amar Arthur Anthony with Breanne's grandmother Elizabeth in attendance.

MAKE A DIFFERENCE IN SOMEONE'S LIFE: BECOME A VOLUNTEER!

Francis House is currently recruiting volunteers for a variety of positions. Our volunteers have always played an instrumental role in the care we are able to provide to our residents. In addition to serving a worthwhile purpose, volunteering affords you the opportunity to connect with others, is good for your mind and body and brings fun and fulfillment to your life. If you have never before volunteered with us and would like to learn more, please contact Rea Carver at 315-475-5422 to discuss how you might become part of our Francis House family.

“Where the Eucharist of the ordinary happens, transforming our broken fragments into an eternal continuity that keeps us.”

— John O'Donohue

To Bless the Space Between Us: A Book of Invocations and Blessings

Mom was dying, that much we knew. But how she would die was a perplexing and terrifying question that was faced by her brood, six children, six in-laws, nieces, nephews and grandchildren. So we did what we always do, divide the work. Visits were made to various nursing homes, investigations into the world of at home care and hospice were conducted. Even the option of one of us taking a leave from work and having mom finish her journey with one of us were considered. None of these fully fulfilled our desire to take care of mom. Then the call came from Francis House...our mother spent her final month in the care of Francis House. It was a loving environment that embodied her outlook. Mom always felt that the two most important things in life were faith and family. The quote above embodies what is provided by the Francis House. It transformed the broken fragments of pain into the formation of faith and family.
